Beth Cullen (oil/acrylic)

Beth Blackwell Cullen is a passionate, versatile artist. Painting en plein air has helped her forge a deep connection to landscapes. Whether it is a cool stream or warm sand, bright sunshine or rich shadows, Beth seeks to capture the depth and complexities of nature. She is especially captivated by the intricate textures and shifting forms of trees. Beth is a drawing instructor and manages the Virginia Highland Plein Air Painters in Atlanta. She is a member of Oil Painters of America, the American Impressionist Society and is a Member of Excellence in the Southeastern Pastel Society.

Barbara Ratner (watercolor)

Watercolorist Barbara Worth Ratner's principal livelihood is architectural illustration, the visual rendering of new buildings and environments before they are constructed. In events and competitions, and often on no special occasions, she also illustrates the real world, en plein air. Ratner is a graduate of Yale's School of Architecture, a Past President of the American Society of Architectural Illustration, and a recent winner of the Gabriel Prize awarded by the Western European Architecture Foundation. In 2023, she added two blue ribbons in open plein air competitions in Georgia to her list of similar awards.
